

Phenomenological model of Human Mind.

- conscious experience is so tightly controlled by attention that it's hard to imagine that (CE) ~~does anything~~ ~~any further processing~~ could operate a mental model.
- CE could filter/simplify ~~output~~ Attention, but it must be a stateless process.

2/ Phenomenological Model

- Experience of STM is that it is ~~not~~ accessible in CE. Simplified form. So, either:

Phenomenological Model

Playing my devil's advocate, what if C.E. was more active (less passive)?:

Not busy all the time. Just when needed.

Capable of operating on its own for much of human activity.